

(a) Clients send committed shares to individual servers. They broadcast commitments publicly.

(b) Servers communicate to verify if the client's input was legal. They also check for server deviations

(c) If the servers pass the authentication test but fail the sketching test, the client is excluded. Otherwise, each server accumulates the client shares. If an honest server detects corrupt behaviour from another server, it aborts the protocol.